

JOHNS HOPKINS

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

The Hopkins Community many mean different things to different people, but the goal of the Johns Hopkins Alumni Association is simple – it's committed to expanding and enriching this worldwide community for our students and alumni.

On the campuses of all nine schools, the Association helps students to unite around student-led social, athletic, academic, artistic and service activities that enhance their experiences and help them to form personal and professional relationships that will sustain them in the years ahead. The Association also helps alumni to create Hopkins communities based on shared locations, careers, issues, and interests. It also assists members of the community to encourage and support the next generation of alumni through mentoring and other activities. And, the Association holds reunions to allow alumni to return to their campus communities to recharge.

Gifts to the Johns Hopkins Alumni Association enable the Association to reach more people with more helpful resources, and to enrich and expand the Hopkins community in all its many forms.
