Whether fall, winter, spring or summer, each of the four seasons accentuates the beauty of the wonderful Johns Hopkins University campus.

Charles Commons

As the newest addition to the Homewood Campus Community, Charles Commons promises to be a facility that will enrich the residential lives of many Hopkins students and will also house a new dining hall and bookstore. Its progress throughout the year has been noticeable and exciting as the anticipation builds for its completion due in time for the 2006-2007 academic year.

BME Design Day

---

---

Each year at the BME Design Day, BME students are given an opportunity to display the results of long hours of challenging work on their group's specialized project.

Audiences and spectators are always amazed at the complexity and functionality of all of the students' projects.

Spaghetti Bridge Competition

---

Each year students have an opportunity to compete in the annual Spaghetti Bridge competition where their engineering and design abilities are put to the ultimate test! The experience proves to be a memorable one for not only the student contestants, but also for the rather captivated audience.

MSE Symposium

Each year a staff of dedicated and hard working students prepares a series of guest speakers open to all members of the JHU community. The esteemed list of speakers varies year to year and usually includes famous names in areas such as the political and entertainment arenas.

After the speaker had completed his or her speech, the audience was given time to ask questions and were privileged enough to be able to engage in discussion with the guest speaker.

The renowned Dick Morris, known for his years in the political world, serving as a consultant to former President Bill Clinton and who is currently a Fox News commentator and New York Post columnist, was just one of the many influential lecturers in the organized series of speakers.

Political strategist James Carville (above) was also on the list of prestigious guest speakers for this year's MSE Symposium. In addition, the other lecturers included Kate Michelman, former president of NARAL Pro-Choice America, Gallup Poll editor-in-chief Frank Newport, executive producer of Law and Order: SVU Neal Baer, and author and civil rights activist Phyllis Schlafly. Jennifer Gilbert (right) presented a workshop on broadcast journalism during the series of speakers as well.

Arabian Nights

This year the annual tradition of Spring Fair weekend included a new element of cultural entertainment for the students and community of Hopkins. Arabian Nights was a one night festivity filled with exotic belly dancing, flavorful hookah, and a good time to be had by all!

The night of diverse fun proved to be just one of Spring Fair's many successes! Students could enjoy a relaxing evening of hookah or head inside to a dance floor, and more belly dancing!

Blind Date

This spectacularly fun event single handedly linked a world record attempt, a charity drive, and hopeful romance! The Blind Date event was organized in hopes to not only break the Guinness Book of World Records number of simultaneous couples on blind dates, but to also raise funds to help HIV positive and AIDS patients afford treatment. It was truly a heartfelt attempt that proved to be quite a night of enjoyable festivities.

The event quickly turned into an evening of entertainment as the participants enjoyed music, dancing, and a light dinner.

Hopkins Idol

The talent that gathered for this competitive, musical event blew a rather captive audience away while impressing judges simultaneously. Mirrored after the ever so popular TV series, Hopkins Idol tested the musical abilities of many contestants...but only one winner could be named "Hopkins Idol!"

All were amazed and thoroughly entertained during this wonderfully amusing event. The diverse talent epitomized how truly gifted all Hopkins students are, and what a fantastic community that makes up the University.

Top Model

This was a first for JHU! VisionXchange, a dedicated student group for service and international relief, hosted the first annual "Top Model" Competition. Taking cues from the hit television show, this event was not only a successful charity event, but also an enjoyable one for all parties involved. It attracted all kinds of participants, audience members, and even judges who included Hopkins' very own staff and faculty. It was certainly a night to be remembered by all; particularly the winners lucky enough to claim the title of Hopkins "Top Model."

Clearly the display of talent and beauty at this event was one that pleased and amused the audience! It also seems obvious that the contestants had a bit of fun themselves!

Orientation '05

Every fall Johns Hopkins University welcomes another freshmen class to its diverse family. Thanks to dedicated and hard working volunteers, staff, and even President Brody himself, Orientation week is one of excitement and amusement for the campus and particularly the new class. It gives the incoming freshmen time to become acquainted with not only the University but the community of the campus. This fall, JHU merrily welcomed the Class of 2009!

From a beach barbeque to ice cream socials to a trip to Camden Yards to see the Baltimore Orioles, Orientation was a week of fun festivities, free food, and most importantly, newly formed friendships. The freshmen ended the week feeling more secure with their new environment and brand new friends.

Orientation week also provides the opportunity for new students to help out in the community during the service projects day. Another event included a trip to the Baltimore Museum of Art, just a short walk away from the Homewood Campus, where the freshmen and their families could enjoy the wonderful displays of artistic talent.

Orientation '05

Playfair is one of the many annual events the dedicated Orientation staff organizes for the incoming Class of 2009. Full of comical and entertaining ice-breaker activities, the event gives the freshmen a chance to meet their entire class as they all pack into the recreational center.

Thanks to beautiful September weather, many fun events, and a wonderful new class,
Orientation week closed
with excellent success
and exciting new memories.

The "O-Show" is not an event to be missed during Orientation week! The annual concert includes practically all of the performing arts groups on campus from dance to a cappella. In fact the audience is far from limited to only the new freshmen class, all members of the community line up to see this spectacular exhibit of Hopkins' talented campus.

Among the impressive list of performers were the Octopodes, the Allnighters, the Sirens, JOSH, the Mental Notes, and many many other exciting and very talented groups.

Gospel Choir

One of the many talented,
musical groups on campus,
the Gospel Choir amazes audiences with their booming and inspirational sound year after year.

A Winter Wonderland

Intersession

Every year between fall and spring semesters, Intersession provides students with a long break from their rigorous studies.

However, some students opt to return to Johns Hopkins University after the holidays to take courses for several weeks for personal enrichment, or even for academic exploration.

During Intercession there are classes for all of students. From wine tasting, to musical or dance classes, to beer appreciation, the course selection is clearly just as diverse as the JHU community.

Black History Month

All throughout the month of February, the Johns Hopkins University campus recognizes Black History Month and utilizes it as a time to acknowledge the many achievements and contributions the African American heritage has brought not only our world and nation, but more specifically our campus community.

Between the guest speakers, artistic displays, fashion shows, and the many other fantastic events, the month of February was quite a celebration of Black History.

Blue Jays Athletics

School Spirit

School spirit is always at a peak
in the well known "Nest"
section of Homewood Stadium where students show their support for the home team! Go

Be it the band or a single student, no one can contain their pride for the JHU Blue Jays!

Senior Class Dinner

It was the beginning of the end for the graduating seniors of the Class of 2006 as they attended the Senior Class Dinner in celebration of their commencement, a common goal finally reached after four years of hard work and perseverance at JHU.

It was a memorable night for the class of 2006 as they gathered together over good food and company to celebrate their accomplishments of the past 4 years and to look ahead towards their bright futures.

Class Reunion

It was quite a homecoming to see as past classes joined together for the annual reunion. The parade was a site for all as alumni, young and old, shared experiences, memories, and friendships that have lasted for lifetimes. Whether traveling long distances or merely a short local trip, it was a special display of loyalty by past graduates who consider themselves honored to call Johns Hopkins University their alma mater.

Organized by year of graduation, the joy of the diverse alumni parade was only augmented by the beautiful weekend weather.

Commencement 2006

The Johns Hopkins University faced the bittersweet graduation of the Class of 2006. As the campus community said goodbye to the accomplished graduates, they anxiously began a new era of their lives. Good luck and congratulations to the Class of 2006!

The traditional ceremony included faculty, staff, and of course the graduating Class of 2006.

As the procession of graduates entered the Homewood Field Stadium, parents, friends, and family looked on with pride and joy as the former students close one chapter of their lives while opening another full of opportunities and new experiences.

It was quite a site to be seen in the transformed Homewood Field as the Class of 2006 experienced what was to be their last time as undergraduate students at Johns Hopkins University.

Participants of this bittersweet, emotional event were not limited to faculty and students as friends and family look on approvingly at the graduates, each being a success in their own way.
