Remember what is most important. It is not having everything go right; it is facing whatever goes wrong. It is not being without fear; it is having the determination to go on in spite of it. Remember that everyday ends and brings a new tomorrow full of exciting new things. Love what you do, do the best you can, and always remember how much you are loved.

Tim Miller

Dearest Tim,

We are now forever have been, and always will be very proud of you. To quote our favorite Irish blessing; Our wish for you is to be brave in times of trial, when hope can scarce shine through. That every gift God gave you might grow along with you, and may you give the gift of joy to all who care for you. We pray that in every hour of joy and pain you will feel us close.
Remember that we will always be together. We love you very much. Mom, Dad, Kevin, Pete, Liz, Adam and Josh

Ryan Aronberg

Wow Ryan, what a great 22 years it has been. So your going to be a doctor, not a soccer pro. Things kind of change when you grow up, but for you soccer was always about the fun anyway and I'm sure it will continue.

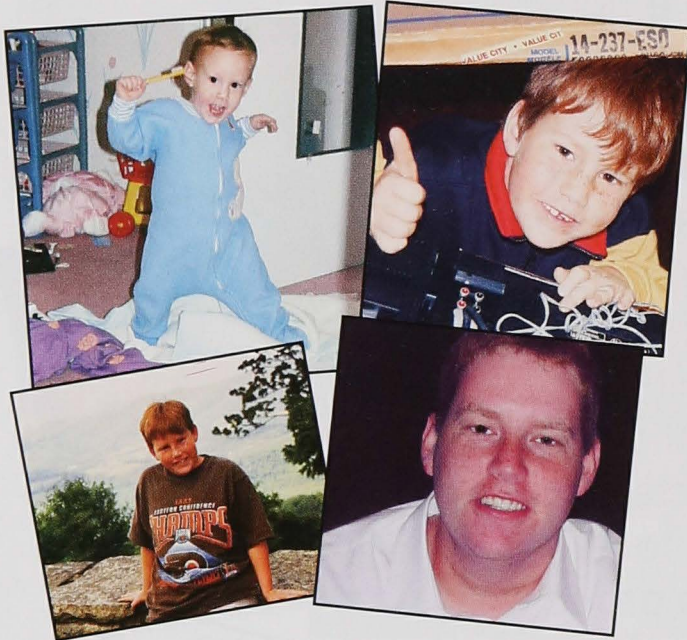

There's a T shirt your wearing in one photo that may have predicted your future (hint: look to left). I couldn't be more proud of you.

Love, Dad

NO ONE GOES THROUGH MEDICAL SCHOOL TO PRACTICE INSURANCE.

Remember graduating from college and passing your MCATs, then spending the next four years of your life getting through classes like clinical epidemiology, neurology and radiology so you could practice medicine? Today's financially driven managed care environments make having a practice difficult. Hurrying patients in and out of the office to make a quota and going into negotiations to prescribe treatments that don't coincide with a patient's policy aren't practicing medicine. We'd like to prescribe a solution: Move your profession to the United States Air Force. Get back to what's important — practicing medicine.
